Index

This manual is not a very long one, but it contains quite a number of concepts and other things that are sometimes hard to find. The author has tried to make this index sufficiently complete.

The index consists of subject names and page numbers where the subjects can be found. Reserved words appear in boldface (like begin), types and routines etc. in teletype font (like `int`), syntactic terms in italics (like parms), and others in the normal roman font. A page number is given in italics if the subject name can be found from the page in italics or boldface, teletype font is used if an example is on the page, otherwise the normal roman font is used. If the page contains a definition or is a primary source of information for the subject the number is underlined.